

Cicadas

By

Wan*akes

c The Cuckoos joined the morning birds
As we woke up hand in hand
With memories of last night's words
And they say that they have planned

d A rush of feeling to the heart
Under the moonlight's quiet glow
We might have known this
From the start
But for me time moved so slow

e There was nervousness and fears that day
Although now the world seems so calm
I stumble for the right words to say
As we wake to a hope filled dawn

1. We gently rise up from the bed
As morning greetings pass our lips
"How about we make pancakes" I said
You reply "let's add chocolate chips"

2. I start to get the batter ready
While you started making tea
We hold hands to keep each other steady
It's a brighter future we now both see

3. We sit at the breakfast table
Gently side by side
And we are now both so much more able
As those feelings no longer hide

1. And the everyday life I live
On the ends of changing leaves
Reflects the world's uncertain moves
At times when we can't choose

2. And even if it's the smallest change
To everyone else but us
The everyday life I see
Is so much more beautifully different
Using "we" alongside "me"

1.A cool breeze makes the maple sway
With each other is our time
The tea tastes so much warmer today
With you whatever future is fine

2.The ocean continues their happy chirp
With each other is our time
The days seem so much easier
And as long as we have each other

3. I know things will be fine
I know things will be fine
End

Cicadas by Wan*Cakes

(Waffles and Pancakes)

Writing- CoyoteTent45

Art- Zach Octavius

paaw-<http://www.paaw.net/member.php?id=15945726>

Tumblr-zachoctavius.tumblr.com

-if you made it this far thank you! i really appreciate you taking the time to read this and i hope that in some way it made your day at least a little better. We'd love any feedback so please send us a message on paaw or tumblr, whichever works best for you. Thanks again-
CTM45